CASINO—Novelty Company.
The indications for twenty-four hours, commencing at 3 p. m. to-day, for Missouri are: Warmer, generally fair weather; light to fresh winds, shifting to westerly.

The gubernatorial booms will soon begin to bump their heads together.

The chief reliance of the election swingers is silence. They are not saying a word.

The Hendricks Association should investigate Recorder WILLIAMS and denounce him.

For Governor of Missouri: Any man who will make the railroads pay their share of taxes.

New and extensive strikes are promised for this week among the protected industries of Pennsylvania.

This week will be marked by unusual activity in trade, especially in trades for the gubernatorial nomination.

The SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH yesterday contained more news and better news than any of our esteemed contemporaries.

It may be noted that the war-tariff gang are taking the defensive. Under the circumstances it could hardly be otherwise.

In the men whose business it is to beat the exodus gong don't stick to the work better the whole business will soon die out and be forgotten.

HENRY GEORGE now intimates that he is in favor of CLEVELAND's re-election. A great many people will now quit putting
Mr. GEORGE on the back.

The friends of fraudulent registrations should not rely on any conspiracy of silence instituted by newspapers. That sort of help is very unreliable.

The Chicago people are enthusiastic over the proposed erection of a crematory.
They think it will be a place where the best cream will be made.

The support which Recorder WILLIAMS is receiving from the city authorities in his attempts to purge the registration lists is of the left-handed description.

The necessity of uprooting the registration inquiries that afflict this city becomes more apparent in view of the journalistic support which they are receiving.

Mr. C. P. HUNTINGTON has been called upon to "explain thin ga'" before a Congressional committee, but the explanation wanted is very different from that which used to be concocted in the Pacific Railroad lobby.

In the case of the State against the Iron Hall Judge NOONAN decides in favor of the Iron Hall. He adds that it is a pleasure to him to be able to decide in that way. No one will question the sincerity of such an utterance.

The eloquent silence of the Mayor on the question of revising the fraudulent registration-lists may help his gubernatorial boom among a certain class of city politicians, but it will not help him throughout the State.

The vote on BISMARCK's army bill will decide whether the Reichstag is to be dissolved or not. In a matter like this BIS-MARCK can outvote the Imperial Parliament.
It is probable that the uncertain state of affairs along the Russian frontier will cause the bill to be passed by a decisive majority.

To the announcement of Gov. MOR-HOUSE as a candidate to succeed himself is imparted a novel interest by two official statements: (1) That his wife is a cousin of JEFF DAVIS. (2) That he has been using a hair restorer which has caused a fine new crop of hair to grow all over his formerly very bald pate. As he is to make "an energetic canvas for the nomination" his going to and fro through the State will spread the reputation of his favorite brand of hair restorer, and the further test of its virtues will be very interesting to BISMARCK. By sending a bottle to Berlin, properly addressed, Gov.

MOREHOUSE may dispel the war clouds that now hang so dark over Europe.

TAKING THE LEAD.

The SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH yesterday morning published a larger number of telegrams and covered a larger number of points with its telegraphic service than any other newspaper in the city. Our record of yesterday is 105 telegrams from 98 points, as follows:

METROPOLITAN PRESS.

What the Editors of the New York Journals
Are Saying This Morning.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

NEW YORK, February 6.—The WORLD says:
"Information comes of the formation of a trust of arms and manufacturing trust." There is already a cartridge trust. Various other trusts for controlling the product and price of small articles are announced in a way that is calculated to carry consternation to the community at large. But there is one important trust forming that bears with it a cheerful suggestiveness—the only one of the kind—that is the store trust. All the other trusts will be similarly designated in a reasonably short time if public opinion continues to intensity at its present rate."

THE SUN.

The Sun says: "The representatives of the present House of Representatives with regard to the small arms which appeal to easy-going good natured men, who are fond of the log-rolling instinct, is plenty for Mr. Holton to do this winter."

THE TRIBUNE.

The Tribune says: "There is grave reason to fear that serious trouble will occur this week in the mining regions. Strikers ought to be ready for nothing but violence by acts of violence, but men like the Pennsylvania miners are not trained to look about themselves, but they are not trained to keep out of trouble, while the State authorities to maintain order at any cost will be compelled to use force. The miners ordered to prepare for an emergency and bloodshed may occur if the foolish strikers persist in their ill-advised course."

THE HERALD.

The Herald says: "As the books now look it, Mr. Blaine will have to kill off a good many flops before he can get into the race."

THE TIMES.

The Times says: "It is a problem of great importance whether any combination or combinations lay before the American people for solution. They should remember that the existence of a monopoly combination which is an evil and an curse to the public welfare in the work of supplying consumers, but in many cases it virtually deprives customers of the right to buy."

We are inclined to believe that the problem can be solved by the enforcement of existing laws, and the strict enforcement of the law in the country, and let the greedy and ungrateful tariff rings be broken by a reduction or a removal of the duties which enable them to exist."

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

CECIL.—A half-dollar of 1844 is quoted at 750.
Will you tell me when you mention 216 combinations are possible.

SUBSCRIBER.—The Wednesday of Fair week in the year 1888 was October 7.

READER.—The Provident Savings Association has paid the third dividend.

PROTESTANT.—Layman's complaint before the Inspector of Public Buildings. He will look after the fire-trap you mention.

E. P. AND CONSTANT READER.—As far as we have seen, the record of your year is all right.
But we do not undertake to advise on any subject of this kind. Inquire for yourself.

SUBSCRIBER.—It is not "unlawful" to use an assumed name in writing a letter to a party who knows you by such name. Neither is it "unlawful" to have a letter of that kind sent to him.

JON E.—There is very little difference between the way a bashful man proposes to his lady love and the way people who are not troubled with bashfulness propose to their ladies. The bashful man is more likely to keep his love a secret, but the bashful woman is more likely to tell her love for him.
I am sorry to say that this is leap year.

JOHN E.—There is a great difference between the way a bashful man proposes to his lady love and the way people who are not troubled with bashfulness propose to their ladies. The bashful man is more likely to keep his love a secret, but the bashful
woman is more likely to tell her love for him.

J. D. E.—If you are engaged to the lady, as you say, go to her home, and soon afterwards a letter breaking the engagement with any reason, you should be thankful you engaged her. The lady should be thankful she engaged him.

THE LOWLY—WHITE CONTEST.

As the Constitution requires that a naturalized citizen shall have been seven years a naturalized citizen before he is eligible to a seat in the House of Representatives, there should be a reasonable adherence to the rule which requires him to fix the date of his naturalization by producing his naturalization papers or other record proof.

The Democrat of the House Committee on Elections may adhere too rigidly to this rule in proposing to declare vacant the seat for the Twelfth Indiana District.

WHITE (Rep.) who received 17,600 votes against 15,418 for the Democratic candidate, claims that he twice took out his naturalization papers but lost them, and is now unable to find or produce any court record whatever in support of his other record proof.

A QUEER WOMAN CRANK.

Jenny Leyes of Los Angeles Remains Aloof From Her Kind For Eight Years.

Los Angeles has a woman who is almost the equal of the bride in "Great Expectations," who sat in her room in his wedding finery until it was time to taste. But this woman is a widow, and, in loving and trustful obedience to the behest of her dead husband, she hasn't left the house, nor the room in which he died for nearly eight years, and in all that time has held no communication with any one except through a broken window. The woman who has been the widow of a man in the center of a busy city is Mrs. Jenny Leyes, and she is enduring all this martyrdom in the hope that her husband, who is dead, will be resurrected to the end, and great and glorious will descend upon her.

When she and her husband came to the eastern city eight years ago he was in the last stages of consumption, and soon afterward he died. His wife, who had believed until almost the last that her husband would live, was almost crazy with grief. There were both strong spiritualists of the kind styled "Christian Spiritualists" and their friends, who believed that his spirit would return and give her information about the state of his soul, and she clung to the whole world. The first time that she slept after his death she woke up cheerful and happy, and she has been ever since, herself, with grief when put to bed. She explained that her husband's spirit had apparently made her very happy, and that she did not mind his death.

It is not seen any one for eight years. At the end of the time she has given to her, and she would be able to materialize in broad daylight and in any room or on the street.

She followed the directions to the letter, and the time of her imprisonment is now almost up. She has been fed and waited on by old maid, who have been staying with her, but all of whose communications with her have been through a blind door. In all these years no one has been allowed to speak to her, and the only proof that she is still in the room is the sound of her voice which comes out through the blind door or the window.

When she has been alone it has become necessary. Several attempts have been made to get her out, and a few years ago a gentleman approached her and made her a proposal of marriage, but the Judge, learning the facts in the case, refused to issue it.

But the city of Los Angeles has ordered the moving of the house in which she lives, as a new City Hall is to be built upon the site, and the boy leaves in her religion, and she is anxious to have him.

She is anxious and pained, and deeply troubled as to what the result of moving the house will be.

In the Table Etiquette.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Mrs. Cleveland Surrounded by a Mob of Curious Sight-Seeers.

By Telegraph to the Post-DISPATCH.

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 6.—Mrs. Cleveland has often been annoyed and embarrassed by the curiosity of the public and their not altogether courteous maneuvers to see and hear her on all occasions. She has borne it with the utmost good nature, feeling that it was well-meant and at the worst thoughtful. Yesterday, however, the experience was a narrow escape from serious injury at the hands of a veritable and disgraceful mob, that gathered at Dr. Sundeen's Church to see her leave the service. The circumstances were steadily on the increase for some weeks, in spite of the best efforts of the police. Crowds of people, many of them strangers in town, who had gathered to see the arrival of the President and Mrs. Cleveland, collect on the sidewalk before the main entrance of the church every time she left the service. An extra detail of police is always made on this account, and the crowd is not allowed to obstruct the exit from the church. Keenly, upon the termination of the regular service and before the communion service, left the church. The newsmen and paparazzi were quickly filled up, however, by a throng that poured in to get a glimpse of Mrs. Cleveland. She had never been so popular with people, and as Mrs. Cleveland was leaving the church accompanied by one of her guides, the crowd caught sight of her and rushed forward. A short time previous, those in front up the steps and into the vestibule. Mrs. Cleveland was soon in the middle of a small crowd, and as she turned to make her retreat, for those who were pushing forward were behind. Several stumbled and fell upon the steps, and the confusion lay in danger of being trampled to death. A gentleman who had been walking near, Mrs. Cleveland and her friend passed to their carriage. Mrs. Cleveland retained her presence of mind throughout the incident, only pausing slightly to allow the crowd to pass. She bowed and smiled pleasantly as the officers lifted their hats, and nodded to several friends whom she recognized in the carriage whisks away.

CURED.

Dr. Chas. D. Bradley of Chicago a Victim of the Cocaine Habit.

By Telegraph to the Post-DISPATCH.

NEW YORK, February 6.—Dr. Chas. D. Bradley, the Chicago physician who became a victim to the cocaine habit while making a study of the effects of cocaine on the body, is said to be cured. He has returned to Chicago. While Superintendent Bunting of the Christian Home for Intemperate Men, was busy entertaining some friends one night a week ago Bradley walked out unobserved. Three days afterward Mr. Bunting received a letter from Bradley stating that he had left the Home with a determination to fill his body with cocaine and morphine and die in that order. A New York newspaper reporter, who had been sent him with which he bought the drugs. But after he had obtained the drugs he had no desire to use them. He walked the streets all night with his hand on the package containing the drugs and finally conquered his impulse. The next morning he was seen walking about the streets of a Jewish priest who had been a professor at the Montreal College from which Bradley graduated. The priest told him that Bradley had told his story. Dr. Bradley called on his friends at the Home and repeated his story of not returning to his old habits. He was looking well, and was evidently so strong in his determination that no attempt was made to detain him.

After Mr. Bunting had received a letter from Mrs. Bradley asking if it would be advisable to have her husband return to Chicago, he wired to Mrs. Bradley to let her know Bradley entered the Home he weighed 150 pounds. During his stay he consumed daily two or three quarts of beer, two quarts of whisky, two foods, and when he left he weighed 155 pounds. There are now two other physicians in the Home who have been suffering in a similar way. Both are said to be recovering rapidly.

A Railroad Porter at Buffalo, N. Y., Receives a Fatal Shock.

BUFFALO, N. Y., February 6.—As Bob E. Tay was driving down Michigan street yesterday morning his horse suddenly dropped and at the same instant he received a strong electric shock through the lines. He recovered from it in a moment, but not understanding what was the trouble, he took his horse out of the wagon and struck the animal with the whip. This time he received a shock that he lay for some moments unconscious. A colored man, who had been watching the proceedings with much astonishment, had held the horse up, but as soon as he touched the animal he fell forward upon it and received for a second time a shock. Tay, who had been frightened that he could do nothing to help himself or the negro, was not until Taylor, who had been struck, spoke up and told him the true state of affairs was understood. They pulled the colored man off the dead horse and took him to the emergency hospital, but he died immediately. His key-hat and knife were found to be highly magnetized. His face was badly discolored, and his hands were blackened with a good deal, and returned his mortal remains to his wife.

The Brush electric light company, who had a telephone wire had fallen into the street and crossed one of their wires. The telephone line was broken, and the horse's feet, but the doctors think Morton got his shock through the horse as both hands were clenched in his pockets and the circuit had passed through his body.

By Telegraph to the Post-DISPATCH.

BOSTON, Mass., February 6.—James Keenan, the well-known sporting man of this city, former backer of Kilrain, while exhibiting in London with Smith, Kilrain says in reference to his fight with Smith: "If it had not been for the Englishman's habit of throwing himself down with the force of his own blows thereby gaining half minutes' rest, I would surely have defeated him. As it was he could not have stood twenty minutes longer when I was declared. Mitchell is dead in earnest about his fight with Sullivan, and will enter the ring in great condition. I don't expect he will win his money, as John Bull, Sullivan's friend, is stakeholder. When I return to America I intend to retire. I will not fight unless something unforeseen happens. I will have money enough and intend to take up something more. I have a family now and don't know what to do. As it is I shall return, as Smith and myself have sparing engagements away ahead which will pay us well."

An Effort to Secure Him for President of the American Association.

From the Commercial Gazette.

The American Association from the date of its organization has been lacking in one important particular, which has, more than anything else, tended to decrease its prestige. To-day it might have stood head and shoulders above its older rival, the League, had it a man at the head of its affairs who was gifted with executive ability, and whose actions were wholly unrestrained. Said one prominent member of the Association: "We have never had a man who could be relied upon to do his duty. We have had a man who was able to pilot the Association as those who have had in charge the business of the League have not been able to do. The chances of taking first rank among the base ball organization of the country, and it is surely the object of the American Association, are not to be overlooked. We have a man who is a man at the head of his affairs who was gifted with executive ability, and whose actions were wholly unrestrained. We have a man who is a man at the head of his affairs who was gifted with executive ability, and whose actions were wholly unrestrained. Said one prominent member of the Association: "We have never had a man who could be relied upon to do his duty. We have had a man who was able to pilot the Association as those who have had in charge the business of the League have not been able to do. The chances of taking first rank among the base ball organization of the country, and it is surely the object of the American Association, are not to be overlooked.
